CHATEAU MONGRAVEY 2021 AOP Margaux Cru Bourgeois

— Background —

Château Mongravey is located in Arsac, 22 kilometers northwest of Bordeaux. Created in 1980 by Mr. Regis Bernaleau by combining several prime parcels in Margaux, the estate produces an exceptional wine that receives accolades and awards every year. The charismatic Karin Bernaleau joined the estate in 1999 and directs marketing and distribution for Mongravey. Son, Jerome, has now joined the family company and is involved in the viticulture and vinification. The Bernaleau family also own Château De Braude, an outstanding Haut-Médoc, that was also classified Cru Bourgeois in 2003. Mongravey was one of a handful of estates that became classified as “Cru Bourgeois” in the 2003 Médoc classification (over 250 estates were de-classified the same year). Mongravey is one of the best Margaux available today, surpassing many of the prestigious classified growths in quality and over-delivering for the price.

93 points. This is the latest release from this family-run estate in Margaux. A rich wine, it's still shot through with acidity and fresh black currant fruits. The wine is just setting out on its development
